Confidential, Defence Contractor

Our long-standing client sought a contemporary, sustainable workplace mirroring the company's brand and values, built to support different working styles.

We put our heart, soul, and decades of hard-won experience into our work. So when delighted clients keep coming back to us, it's a great feeling.

This was the case when a long-standing client in the defence industry once again reached out to our team, this time to transform a key regional office. They sought a contemporary, sustainable workplace mirroring the company's brand and values, and able to support different working styles. As ever we applied our unique partnership approach, centred around our dedicated, fully-accountable client lead.

The reception area we designed was open and flooded with light, a principle that was continued in the wider office space. Flexible, multi-functional spaces were created to meet the needs of the maximum number of the team's workforce.

In addition, these zones offered the versatility of collaborative project tables, informal meeting areas and private meeting rooms. A perfect environment for a dynamic forward-thinking organisation to thrive.
