Confidential, Real Estate

We were appointed by a leading name in Real Estate to design and deliver their new premises in a way that supported their team, conveyed their brand, and upheld their organisational values.

With time-frames extremely tight, a key consideration for our multidisciplinary team was managing the project's critical path. Consistent with our tried and tested, process, we invested substantial time at the start of the project learning the firm's culture and work practices, helping us ensure that our proposals reflected the firm's business transformation goals.

A key principle under-pinning the project was sustainability. Leveraging our broad network of partners and suppliers, our team ensured that an environmentally responsible approach was reflected throughout the design and build.

The client sought an environment to support more flexible post-pandemic hybrid working patterns, so we developed a zoning approach to facilitate activity-based working. We also optimised the layout to exploit the available natural light, and to promote wellness.
